NO. 45

Morrow's Election Conceded By Democrats

With two precincts missing, Ohio County gave Edwin P. Morrow, Republican candidate for governor, a majority of 1016 votes. These precincts will likely reduce this to about 1000. From reports throughout the county this was one of the quietest elections for many years. Something near a normal vote was cast.

The Democratic candidates for Hartford City Council were elected by majorities ranging from 3 to 15. Those elected were: S. C. Bender, W. M. Fair, W. H. Gillespie, P. B. Taylor, C. B. Carden and A. C. Acton. The mayor is a democrat.

At the hour of going to press reports from various parts of the state indicate that Morrow is winner by a safe majority, and in fact Gov. Black's manager had conceded the election of the Republican candidate. Louisville was carried by the Republicans by about 8000. Democrats carried the 1st district by 4200, 2nd by 4200, 3rd by 500, 4th by 2000 and the 8th by 2000. Following are a few counties with their majorities: Daviess 207 Democratic, Union 1000 Democratic, Muhlenberg, 1310 Republican. Hardin 800 Democratic, McLean 13 Democratic, Graves 2500 Democratic, Christinn 1200 Republican, Grayson 700 Republican, Hart 400 Democratic, Butler 1500 Republican, Kenyon 1800 Democratic, Fayette Democratic by a good majority.

The Prohibition Amendment was carried by good majority in Ohio county. We have no report as to the state result on this amendment. The vote on Amendment Number 1 was very light.

We have no definite information as to the vote for the various state officers other than governor.

DIED IN HARTFORD

Mr. C. H. Leo died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. B. S. Ellis, of this city, at 6:30 p. m., Oct. 31, of old age. Mrs. Rowan Holbrook entertained the Ladies' Social Club Friday afternoon, October 31. The ladies were ushered in to a most appropriately decorated room; witches, black cats and pumpkins shed a ghostly light over the scene. Six games of rook were enjoyed by the ladies. A dainty luncheon was served at the conclusion of the games. Visitors present were Mrs. Baxter, of Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Henderson Murphree, of Owensboro, Ky., and Mrs. Felix, of this place.

Last Monday saw another change of management at the Hartford Post Office. Judge J. S. Glenn now greets those who inquire for mail. Prof. Shukts, the retiring Postmaster rendered a very efficient administration and it is predicted that the same courteous service will be given by the present incumbent. Mrs. Robert Walker will be retained as First Assistant and Cokely Taylor will serve as Second Assistant.

For Justice Sake and The Irish Question.

There has just come to me from some unknown source a copy of the Hartford Republican, of October 10, bearing an article under the above caption assailing an editorial which appeared in The Herald of September 17, 1919, in which I gave a summary of opinion concerning the mooted "Irish Question." I wrote recently an extensive article on this subject for The Herald, but the copy becoming misplaced, it was not published. Our informant, who lacks the courage or inclination to sign his name to the article but parades under the nom de plume of "For Justice Sake", asserts that he is one "having not the honor of even a remote claim to Irish ancestry nor swayed by mere sentiment," but is a lover of justice purely and simply; and in the conglomeration of fancies, distorted facts, religious bitterness and misquotations that follows, he plainly sets forth the fact that his prime motive is the defense of Roman Catholicism, the reference to which seems to have so nettled him. We do not know why he waited until now, when the one who wrote the article has severed his connection with the paper and is a thousand miles away, to write this article of condemnation, unless he spent the interim in preparation of its matchless rhetoric and in assembling the historical facts which relates only to American history and have no bearing whatever on the subject under discussion.

It is really cruel in me to tax the readers of this paper with an answer to all the vagaries which he holds as arguments. I'm going to couch my disposition of these poorly presented theories in as brief manner as possible, then devote the remainder of this article to a discussion of the question in the light of history. To lay at rest his sentimental whims and misrepresentations requires but sentence paragraphs.

In the first place, he devotes considerable space to the fact that Irishmen helped fight the American Revolution and lays this as a basis for his claim that America should help them obtain Home Rule. Well, well! Poor old Baron von Steuben was a Prussian who drilled the American armies and made them victorious over the British and yet, only a year ago, we finished a war in which the ungrateful Yankees whipped Von Steuben's country black and blue. The Jews fell on nn hundred fields, Jewish hands lifted the first American banner over Savannah, carried the bleeding Jasper from the field, withstood the redcoats at Germantown, and yet, when the Russians tried to massacre all Israel, America stood passively by. Poles came across the waters and gave their life-blood; Kowlski, Pulaski and Kosciuszko, and yet Poland has been oppressed by Russia these many years and we said never a word. And because the Irish, like so many other nations, chose to help the colonies, Ireland has been bellyaching all these years and crying ingratitude. During the war of the Revolution, according to Parnell, the Irish organized a great army for the sole purpose of fighting the Americans, but France threw her aid to the colonies and Ireland held off.

He asked if Ireland ever had a chance to govern herself. Let us see. Ireland was converted to the Christian faith under the preaching of emissaries from Rome some five hundred years before England ever became an independent power. She immediately became a tool of Denmark, the then ruling papal power of Europe. It was in 1169 that Strongbow, the Saxon chief, came over from England directly after his conquest of the portion of England which was not taken by William the Conqueror. The Irish chief, Dermot McMurrough, gave his daughter, Eva, in marriage to the Saxon leader, thereby granting the heritage of the Irish crown to the Saxons. Thus by right of lineage, if for no other reason, the Irish crown belongs to the ruling house of England. An Irish parliament had already been established years before this, and bound Ireland as a vassalage to Rome. It was during this time that Henry, of Germany, denied the temporal power of the pope and the great ensuing struggle resulted directly in the Reformation. But Ireland had pledged herself to a protection of the pope's interest, was a vassal of Denmark and a subject of the Saxons. And this is the kind of muddle these highly intelligent Irish had gotten themselves into. Of course, war followed, for in those days the strong ruled. The Saxons, later the English, won; and since then in theory, if not in fact, Ireland has been an English dependency. The Irish, I repeat, have never shown themselves capable of concerted action and independence of thought necessary to establish an independent government. After the English disturbances, the Wars of the Roses, the Tudors and their wrestlings and n thousand other petty wars over the English crown, the Irish were left largely to attend to their own business. Still unable to control themselves, they bound themselves as vassals to Spain, the then ruling Catholic power, and became a menace to England in such a manner to cause the inevitable union. Fired by a zeal to murder "heretics", as a great campaign was then going on to exterminate the Protestants, they began to send bands of marauders and thieves across the Irish sea, to kill the defenseless women and children of the western coast of England. These bands, often led by priests, halted and held mass before sacking towns and tearing little children open and burning them with sulphur. In custom of the party they represented—the Spanish Inquisition. If my "informed" assailant denies this, let him go to history. During the Wars of the Commonwealth they seized an opportunity to murder all the Englishmen in Ireland and paid the price for their savagery when Cromwell went over with his "Ironsides." But we are going too fast. Let us look at Ireland during the rule of Queen Elizabeth. Bound by the tie of religion to cruel and barbarous Spain, they tried in every way to aid her in the attempt to crush England and the Protestant religion forever from the face of the earth. Belag at England's back door, they spread signal fires to aid the Spanish Armada in its approach to the English coast, but the gallant Drake, aided by Providence, frustrated their combined attempts and saved civilization from being swallowed in the maw of Romanish superstition.

In 1686, James, the Catholic king of England, had played traitor to his own people and gave the Irish unrestricted freedom under the guidance of his Deputy, Lord Tyrconnell. This dignitary supplied the Irish with arms and prepared them to be ready at the given word of Rome to fall upon their unsuspecting neighbors, the English Protestants, and sadly enough, Irish Protestants as well, and kill them in one night. During this time the English and Irish Protestants suspected something and congregated in a small district around Dublin which they called the Pale, and it was thought to be almost certain death to go "beyond the Pale," hence that phrase.

The founding of Ulster by the English has been condemned in a former article. This is one of the causes of greatest friction between the Irish and English. Protestant Ulster will never submit to the rule of Catholic Ireland, and Ireland will not have Home Rule unless she can rule "after too." She cries, Home Rule over all Ireland or nothing. The prospect is, as the Louisville Times has said, she will get nothing. The province of Ulster before the English settlement was uninhabited, all the Irish dwelling in the south of Ireland. See Macauley's History of England and Ireland. It was visited only by the most savage tribes, a description of whom Macauley gives as follows: "Carasses, half raw and half burned to cinders, some still bleeding, sometimes in a state of loathsome decay, were torn to pieces and eaten without salt. When they wanted boiled beef, they cooked the steer in his own skin. They were a crowd of half-naked Celts, singing Celtic songs and dancing around an ox. They cut their streaks out of an animal while still alive and threw the bleeding, quivering forms onto the burning coals." This was the class of persecuted Irishmen the English stole Ulster from when they went and settled north Ireland. Two towns which they founded and after flung prominently were Londonderry and Enniskillen. In a short time these Scotch and English husband-

Coal Miners Strike On Schedule Time

Upward of 94,000 bituminous coal miners throughout the nation of a total of 615,000 men employed in that industry, are on strike in response to the general strike call, effective at midnight last Friday, according to reports, in some instances estimated, received by union leaders. Despite the Federal injunction issued at Indianapolis against the strike, the leaders who generally stated that the strike would be extended to more than 50,000 miners.

Mine operators have announced no plans for carrying on mining, despite the precautionary steps taken and promised by the Federal and different state governments. Neither had they given out an estimate of the number of men on strike.

From headquarters of the Central Department of the United States army, which embraces most of the nation's great bituminous coal fields no reports of additional moving zones had been announced.

Federal troops from Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky., are on duty in the West Virginia coal fields and others are held in readiness in Georgia to be sent to the East Tennessee mining district. In Colorado and Oklahoma State troops have been ordered into the coal fields.

Order Observed.

Throughout the country the putting into effect of the walkout was orderly. No reports of violence or destruction to property were received and in many instances a sufficient quota of union men was left at the various properties to prevent accidents or the damage that would result from stopping the machinery. Figures on the number of men out were as follows:

Alabama	23,000
Arkansas	4,000
Colorado	5,000
Illinois	90,000
Indiana	28,000
Iowa	14,000
Kansas	12,000
Kentucky	20,000
Maryland	4,000
Michigan	2,400
Missouri	9,000
Montana	4,000
New Mexico	800
North Dakota	120
Ohio	40,000
Oklahoma	10,500
Pennsylvania	87,000
Tennessee	10,000
Texas	4,000

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Chapman, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Tichenor

Wyoming	8,000

All the unionized mines in Daviess, Muhlenberg, Ohio, McLean, Henderson and Union counties were closed Saturday as a result of the walkout of approximately 5,000 miners engaged in these mines. The recently organized mines in Webster, Hopkins and Christian counties are still running.

Nowhere in the district. The men. No disorder has been reported operators declare, are very jubilant over the strike, as it gives them a rest from the hard work of the last few weeks and an opportunity to spend some of the large amount of money which they have made. When they have rested and spent their money they are expected back.

According to M. L. Tucker, of Central City, secretary of the Coal Operators' association of Western Kentucky, most of the mines in this section shipped the last of their coal on Friday night and will be unable to fill any orders until the miners return.

War-time Prices In Effect.

Mr. Tucker says that the operators have again put into effect the war-time scale of prices for coal, which ranges from $2.95 to $2.60, at the mine. Operators admit that the demand for coal has been so great during the past few weeks that they have been selling coal at as high as $3 a ton at the mine. The dealers were willing to pay the price to get competitive system they saw no reason why they should not take all they could get, especially as they would soon be losing so much as a result of the strike.

Washington, Nov. 2.—If the coal miners should win the 60 per cent. wage increase for which they are striking, it is estimated that their average hourly wage would be $1.25 an hour, as compared with their present average hourly wage of 78.4 cents. Miners in anthracite fields today are earning an average hourly wage of $4.2 cents.

But it is pointed out that these miners average less than five hours' work a day. There are two reasons for this. In the first place, mines quite often do not work on full-time schedule, and, second, miners do not always work when they have the opportunity.

ROY FORRESTER KILLED IN RAILROAD WRECK.

Two men were instantly killed and another seriously wounded when a train was derailed near Madisonville Oct. 15. Fireman Roy Forrester aged 32, of Earlington, and W. C. From all appearances the wheels ran over his neck and arm. Forrester had been employed as fireman on the Henderson division for about two years. He and his parents formerly resided in Hartford. The people of Hartford extend their deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

Pleasing Trait of Household Help in Palestine.

Presence of Company to Dinner is Taken as a Compliment—Native Woman's Amusing Confession of Vanity.

Palestine is one place in the world which has no "servant problem," according to Miss Evangeline Metheny of Beaver Falls, Pa., just returned from Red Cross service in the Holy Land.

"The servants in Palestine," says Miss Metheny, who has lived there most of her life, "are a different set entirely from the servants we have here in America. They make their services personal; their interest in their employer's affairs is personal, whereas the American servant regards it impersonally."

"In Palestine, if I were to tell my house servants that there would be ten people in for dinner, they would be delighted. It would be a matter of personal pride with them that their dinner was the best to be had, and their service, too. They would be happy at the thought of working for a mistress who had so many friends that she could get together ten at one time. There would be no sulky looks or actions at the extra work; every servant would co-operate and the dinner would go off grandly."

"Here the mention of an extra guest or two creates a feeling of resentment. I know people who do not dare to invite a dinner guest until they have obtained permission from their cooks. Cooks in Palestine consider extra guests a compliment to their art. The servants in Palestine would ten times rather work for Americans than for the native population. The reason is not alone that we will pay higher wages—we treat them better. For one thing, American women do not swear at them, and native women do. They call down every kind of curse on the servant's eyes, and his children, and his grandchildren; they say the most untranslatable things as a matter of course. It is not in the least unusual, it is quite an affair, for an Arab woman to swear so."

Servants in Palestine may be different, but a woman is a woman the world over, Miss Metheny says with Kipling and other authorities.

"Once in a railroad train," she says, "I was sitting in the same compartment with an old native woman. In the East there are separate carriages for men and women. In our coach there was a particularly pretty girl, and from time to time a young English or American man passed through, watching her. My old woman was kneeling on the seat with her shoes off, praying. In order to pray toward Mecca she had to kneel crosswise on the narrow seat, and the rite of bumping her head on the floor several times in each prayer was an acrobatic feat under such circumstances. Every time a young man came into the carriage she had to struggle for balance while she pulled her veil down over her face. Finally she spoke to me, 'My son,' she said, 'do you not know that you have no right to look at the protected ones?' (women)?"

He apologized, and she raised her veil when he went out.

"You know," she said to me in Arabic, "if I had any teeth left I would not pull down my veil. I only do it that people will think there is a nice face behind it."

In Practice.

"I see your wife has one of those hideous skirts."

"She was early in the game. I'm going to make some money this summer."

"How?"

"By taking her around the block circuit. She ought to win first prize in any sack race for ladies."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Great Expectations.

A certain hard-boiled lieutenant called in a sergeant to better his locker. After thinking it over, he said: "You might have the lieutenant off as I expect to be made captain shortly."

"Why not?" innocently suggested the sergeant. "Leave a space between the lieutenant and your first name, so you could insert 'Col.'—Booster."

The Poet's Corner.

Visitor—Who caused that unsightly fence to be put up in this beautiful neighborhood?

"Oh, that is the home of John Sweetfinger, the famous portrayer of the poetry of child life, author of 'Songs of Childhood' and 'Prattling Voices at Twilight.' He had the fence built to keep out the neighbors' children."—Life.

A Surmise.

"What's the hubbub in the inside of the?"

"The old man is savage today and the fool office boy let in an agent with a 'Life of Cromwell.'"

"Well?"

"I suppose he is selling his life dearly."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Evolution.

"Do you believe in the theory of evolution?"

"I wouldn't venture to contradict it," replied young Mrs. Torkins. "Charley dear is always telling about animals that start as race horses and finish as dogs."

FIRST STATUE IN THE U. S.

Jackson Memorial, Designed and Erected by Sculptor Who Started Life as Plasterer.

The Jackson statue, in Lafayette park, Washington, was the first equestrian statue unveiled in the United States. The famous statue of George III, which the New York patriots pulled down in 1776, was built before there was a United States. The Jackson statue was designed and erected by Clark Mills, a "self-made" sculptor, who started life as a plasterer. He had never seen an equestrian statue before he started work on this one, and the appliances for modeling and casting were made by him. The metal in the group is made of cannon captured by Jackson from the British.

The equiscope of the group is perfect, and no important balancing rods are used to keep the statue from toppling. Mills claims that he had so perfectly attained the center of gravity in the work that the group would balance perfectly on the hind feet of the rearing charger. This fact was proved, but when the statue was erected the hind feet of the horse were bolted, or otherwise fastened, to the base or pedestal, to secure it against the possible effects of high winds or other disturbing or mischievous causes.

Industry Overdone.

The development of the coconut oil industry in the Philippines has been very rapid, due to war conditions. The exports of oil in 1918 amounted to 115,000 tons, as compared with 45,000 tons in 1917 and 16,000 tons in 1916. There is a scarcity of shipping to take copra to Hull, England, and Marseilles, France, which are the great centers for oil crushing, hence it is found more profitable to ship the less bulky oil to the United States. A number of new oil mills have been constructed in the Philippines in order to fill the demand for oil, but it is a serious question whether the present crushing capacity of the Philippine mills is not in excess of the normal supply of copra.

BOTH PARTIES IN CHILDREN'S DRIVE

Plan to Build Farm Home For Kentucky Waifs Supported By Candidates

A BUSINESS PROPOSITION

There are a number of things on which the Republican and the Democratic parties of Kentucky disagree, but there is one thing for which both are working during the turmoil just before election time.

It is for the campaign to raise $200,000 to build the new "village of cottages" on a track of land ten miles from Louisville, in which to care for the destitute children of Kentucky. School children all over the state are contributing their savings for the new home.

"Anything that our own kiddies are for, is not to be overlooked by either party," declared one prominent candidate of the state as he closed a stump speech. "That is one reason why I am pushing for a drive, and that is why our opponents are doing the same. But that is not all the reason."

"The new Children's Home is a thing that is needed for our own public welfare. The present location is congested, and the surroundings are a detriment to the moral and physical welfare of homeless and helpless children of our state. They deserve good care under good surroundings, out on a wholesome farm where they can work and play under favorable conditions and become good citizens."

Business With Charity.

"It is a business proposition to put them where the older children can work and learn scientific farming and dairying, and make the institution self-supporting, and, at the same time, develop themselves so that they can be adopted into homes where they can become useful to the family and to the community."

"And it is a business proposition to every citizen in every county. The Kentucky Children's Home Society takes the destitute children from this very county and cares for them, where otherwise they would be kept at the county poorhouse, where they would be an expense to the county, in the first place, and a menace to us after they grow up as paupers under such sordid conditions. That was the way conditions were twenty-five years ago before the Kentucky Children's Society was founded. There may be charity in a thing like this--and it is charity in the case of the school children who are giving their savings for the cause, but for our citizens, for myself, and for my political opponents, it is a pure case of duty and sound business."

In some ways, however, the political situation is detrimental to the drive, according to George L. Schon, superintendent of the Kentucky Children's Home Society. In the turmoil of the campaign many prominent men of the state who otherwise would be devoting their whole time to the Children's Home Drive are busy in party work. "The drive, which will take place from October 27 to 31, is right on the eve of the election, when the citizens of the state are keyed up to other interests."

"It will be for the children and for the individual citizens to go forward and see it through," Mr. Schon said. "It has the endorsement of the Governor and other prominent officials of the state. Ministers of all denominations are devoting a sermon to the interest of the cause that affects us all. It will go through successfully, but it will need our co-operation."

The Airplane as a Decoy.

Ever since wars have been waged man has made use of decoys to outwit the foe. Even in the recent war a decoy proved to be useful once in a while. An instance occurred at a point on the western front where the British trenches faced a salient of the German trench system. At the time when the British staff determined to reduce the salient, the Daily Chronicle tells us, the Germans were expecting an ordinary attack with its primary bombardment. They promptly fell into the trap set for them.

Early in the morning a British airplane flew very low over the front-line trenches and passed parallel to the German line, but 500 or 600 yards behind it. The Germans thought the plane a target that could not be missed, and turned their backs on the British trenches to fire on the machine. While they were engaging the airplane, the British infantry suddenly went over the top and in a few minutes captured the position and took a number of prisoners.

The machine returned to its air-drome riddled with bullet holes, but both the pilot and the observer were uninjured.

In a Class by Himself.

A gentleman in the engraving business on Broadway, New York, was greatly annoyed by the tardiness of one of his skilled engravers. Calling him into the office one morning he said: "Mr. Brown, I get here at 8:30 every morning and look over my mail; at 11 o'clock I look out the window and see Mr. Rockefeller on his way to the office; at 9:30 Mr. J. P. Morgan passes on his way to the bank; at 10 I see Mr. Vanderbilt going by; at 10:30 Mr. Taft passes on the way to his office; at 11 you come in. Who the-- are you?"--Reheboth Sunday Herald.

SORCERY GRIPS THE ALASKAN

Natives Formerly Implicitly Believed In Words and Actions of the Shaman.

Shamanism, or superstition and sorcery, always has played an important part in the life of the Alaskan native. Says the Chicago Evening Post. So implicitly did the Alaskan of not many years ago believe in the words and actions of the shaman that a whole tribe would go hungry rather than in cur his displeasure by eating foods he had tabooed.

The Shaman attained his position and power by unusual methods. By fasting and prayer amid the solitude of the woods or mountains, where he fed only on grasses and roots, he prepared himself to become a shaman. By this method it was believed the candidate's body became sufficiently purified to become the abiding place of spirits.

Usually the spirit, willing to abide with the shaman, sent the novice a lead otter, which the candidate killed, the otter's tongue to be preserved as a talisman away from human view, for should it be seen it was believed shaman would go insane or be turned into the animal from which the tongue was taken.

Thus the lead otter was regarded as too sacred to be killed by other than shamans.

LOCATIONS OF VOLCANOES

Eruptions Come From Weak Spots on Earth's Crust--Areas Divided in Four Groups.

Volcanoes are located on the weak spots in the earth's crust, scientists say, according to a writer in Leslie's Weekly. These areas are in the ocean basins, the lands bordering these basins, or mountains which flank or construct outlines of continents. These areas are divided into four groups, viz.: (1) Pacific-Caribbean belt, following the Andes of South America, the lesser Antilles, Central America and Mexico, the west coast of North America, Kamchatka, the Japanese Islands, the Philippines, and Sunda Sea Islands, New Zealand and Victoria land, in the Antarctic; (2) the Mediterranean-Caspian region; (3) Atlantic region, including the volcanoes of Iceland and the Azores; (4) the Pacific region, with volcanoes in Polynesia, Hawaiian and other islands. Just why these parts of the earth's crust should be the weak spots has not been convincingly explained.

Apiary Adjunct of the Hospital.

The curious idea of making the apiary an adjunct of the hospital has been suggested. The sting of the bee has long been popularly regarded as a cure for rheumatism, and a British beekeeper has now announced that it is an almost infallible test of the safety of administering anesthetics. The keeping of the bees, therefore, may become necessary as a means of deciding whether surgical operations in certain cases may be performed. A patient suffers from nervous weakness, a bee sting on the hand may cause a large swelling and affect the glands of the body, and operation is then unsafe.

Finland and Australia.

Finland has discovered Australia, and it is hoped, observes an exchange, that the commonwealth will soon recognize commercially the enterprising new republic. Trade relations with Australia are being sought, and Finland will be glad to exchange cream separators and safety matches, paper pulp and timber for a little of Australia's surplus meat and wheat. The consul of the new republic has established his headquarters in Sydney, New South Wales, and has already obtained excellent publicity. Finland must surely have been studying American methods of production.

Masts Made by Machine.

A machine has been built which will shape masts up to 100 feet in length and three feet in diameter. The timber is set up in the machine and revolved at a speed of 50 revolutions a minute, and it is shaped by a cutter head which is electrically driven at the rate of 700 revolutions a minute. This cutter head is mounted on a carriage, which is moved along the timber against a rail set to give the proper profile to the mast. Heretofore this work has been done by hand and required skilled workmen. At best it has been a slow and laborious task.

Promising Invention.

Those of us who love to wear delicate fabrics, like laces, ruelings, or gaudies and chiffons, will be very glad if an alleged invention to render such stuffs moisture-proof shall be successful. Some of us have had a heap of trouble with ruelings in our sport shirts. They haven't remained nice and fresh more than four days when the tennis and golf have been good. If now they may be rendered moisture-proof we shall be as happy as the man with the celluloid collar, and exertion will have no terrors for us.--Hartford Courant.

A Bird Colony.

The most remarkable bird colony in the world is on Hat Island, in the Great Salt Lake, Utah. The island is about 12 acres in extent, and the colony is securely located on a rocky pinnacle 100 feet above the brine, with not a drop of fresh water to be found and apparently nothing to attract the birds except the sense of security which the island offers.

NATURE'S MIRROR

When a woman is well and healthy--there's a sparkle in her eyes, a rose tint in her cheeks, and she has rich red blood. There's elasticity in every movement and a spring in her step. Love comes to every woman who has bounding health--but when she is pallid, dull eyed, languid, she has no magnetism nor does she appeal to any man.

Such a change in feelings and looks!

After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of her sex--with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks--such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable, contains no alcohol.

How can Republican Senators condemn industrial strikes when they are themselves conducting a strike against the League Treaty.

Every citizen of Ohio county should join The Red Cross this week. Your "Heart and a dollar" could not be put to better use.

The Hartford Republican says there is not a saloon in Louisville. In this case ignorance is not bliss, so we advise the editor to consult his old friend John Henry or J. I. Goodman of the Herald.

There is a disagreement between the Republican leaders of the Senate and the House of Representatives as to the date of adjourning the special session of Congress. One set wishes to continue doing nothing until Nov. 10, and the other desires to prolong inaction for six weeks.

We firmly believe in organized labor but there is a limit to all things. Coming at a time when the nation is just emerging from the war, and when everything possible should be done to reduce the high cost of living the nation wide strike of coal miners is the worst thing that could occur, with the possible exception of civil war, for when the fires of a nation cease to burn untold suffering is bound to ensue. Let us hope that the good sense of the miners will prevail over the rash judgment of their leaders.

One of the dirtiest deals sprung by the Republican clique at their headquarters, where all sorts of es had been hatched, was the sovish appeal to the striking miners at the eve of the election. Going to the mining sections of the ountain, where papers come late id seldom, the Republicans altered a circular, declaring at Governor Black favored the lue owners against the miners. ie Times and Courier-Journal lled Morrow's hand and he made complete denial of having any part the affair. But then, it was imssible for the denial to get into ountains in time to turn the judleed minds of the miners who l been deliberately lied to by the publicans.

The American Red Cross, always rthy and ready for any emergy, covered itself with glory durthe Great World War. Of all the ltitutions aiding the American and led soldiers the Red Cross reced fewer criticisms than any er. Have you ever heard a solertelize this organization? te war this great institution devoted its energies to alleviat-suffering throughout the world, content with what it did for our lers in time of war. It has repreatives in every part of the U. S. aid them in securing compensa-back pay, allotments, Liberty ds, positions, medical aid, and aet, they render any assistance soldier needs. One of the chief gs which the Red Cross is do-for the civilians of this country, the teaching of Sanitation and ention of Disease. There are sands of Nurses now conduct-classes in these subjects. Durthe period between November and November 11th it is expectat every public-spirited citizen become a member. All that is l of you is a "Heart and a r."

e color line was more closely a in this election than ever be- In almost every speech the Re-mans appealed to the negro and plead as if pleading for e. Having stolen a ward from egroes in Louisville and in-l their anger, it was necess-or them to make impossible ses, such as the repeal of the row law and other marks of ty, to bumfuzzle the colored into supporting their hand-ticket. The Democratic party, stood four-square for principle nor nor add it pander to race or color. The people of Kentucky will never stand for negro equality and if the Republican party persists in up-holding it is this, a southern state. It is sure to commit suicide. It is still a white man's country on this side of Mason and Dixon's line and will, ever be.

REPUBLICAN ELECT-ION PRACTICES.

(Contributed)
We understand that a local Re-publican campaigner, in a speech the night before the election, to the negroes, promised them that if a Re-publican legislature was elected, the Jim Crow Law would be repealed. Of course this was only hot air and campaign promises which the Republicans did not intend to make good but were only using as a bait to catch the votes of the negroes. But he that as it may, it shows to what extremities the Re-publicans can go in their frenzy for votes and it should be remem-bered by the intelligent white voters of this county should this electioneer ever ask them for office. No matter what may be the politi-cal affiliation of the Kentuckians, they are still Kentuckians, and never shall this state come to the place where negro equality, the curse of the north and the cause of those outlandish riots, ever reign here. The Jim Crow law will never be repealed, nor will the people of this most excellent commonwealth ever allow their children to sit down in school beside negroes to fulfill campaign promises of a few fanatic leaders. Negro equality shall never exist in Kentucky. This smirch of ignominy shall never be spread across the fair record of our old and chivalrous state. And the man who makes such promises had better go slow lest he realize that he is playing with fire and treading where angels fear to go.

AGED RESIDENT SAYS BENEFITS TOTALED $1,000

Relief Trutona Gave Worth That Much to Her, Mrs. Benner Declares.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 4.—"For six dollars I've paid out for Trutona I feel that I've Received $1000 worth of benefits", Mrs. C. Benner, 1123 Hardstown Road, said recently. Mrs. Benner, who is 52 years old, has long been a resident of Louisville, having been born here, and she is well known in this city and vicinity. I'll admit that I didn't have much faith in Trutona at first but it soon proved to be the medicine for my ailments," Mrs. Benner continued. "I used to suffer severe bilious attacks. No one knows the terrible feeling I'd experience during those spells. Some times they would attack me while I was down town and I'd have a hard time getting home. My appetite was so poor there was hardly any kind of food that would tempt me. My liver has been out of shape for the past two years.

"After I had takes three bottles of Trutona I realized it was helping me and now, with the fourth bottle fin-ished, the bilious attacks have ceased to occur. I haven't had a spell for the past week. My kidneys are in bet-ter shape, too. I can truthfully recom-mend Trutona to those who are suffer-ing as I did."

Trutona is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and bowel troubles, catarrhal complaints, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and the like and equally as efficient as a re-constructive agency for overcoming after effects of pneumonia, influenza deep colds and the like.

Trutona, the perfect tonic, is now being introduced and explained in Hartford, Ky., at the Ohio County Drug Co., is sold in Beaver Dam at the Beaver Dam Drug Co., and in Rockport at F. R. Her's Drug Store.

To Our Farmer Friends.

Reports from our auctioneer and figurer, now on the eastern market, show tobacco selling higher than was ever known. This indicates that our market here is going to be higher, so our advice to our farmer friends is not to sacrifice on their tobacco.

There is going to be on our loose leaf floor the coming season the largest number of buyers from all over the world than ever before. It therefore will be to the farmers' interest to bring their tobacco to where their tobacco will have the strongest competition and where factories are equipped to handle it and give the highest prices.

The capacity of our house has been thrilled by building new addition, just large enough now so personal attention can be given to every basket of tobacco, house equipped with latest prism lights, have over 650 feet of loading and unloading space, the best lighted house in Owensboro, no posts to keep the light from having free access to every basket in any part of the house; not too large but what the buyers will be fresh when the sale is over as they were when they started, which is not true on a large house. Above all, special attention is given to neatly unloading every basket.

We have arranged about 100 large and warm stalls for your teams, so arranged that your harness is safe so you do not have to go out from under the warehouse shed to put your teams up.

We have private railroad tracks direct to our warehouse, convenient for unloading your tobacco direct on the floor if you wish to ship us by rail. This is much better than to haul it across the city in wagons to houses that do not have these conveniences, thus damaging and drying out your tobacco before it reaches the factory floor, even if they agree to haul it for nothing you are the loser.

We not only sold the highest bonafide sale of dark tobacco last season made by any house in the state, but have every year stood at the top on both dark and hurley types on averages on the market which counts.

We feel those who have sold over our floor in the past will be pleased to come to us when the season opens, and those who have never sold any tobacco over our floor will give us an opportunity to serve them they will never go elsewhere.

When the season opens bring us your tobacco and be convinced.

MASQUERADE BALL. HALLOWEEN NIGHT

The Masquerade Ball given at the Opera house Friday night was one of the most successful Halloween dances Hartford has witnessed in many years. Most of the costumes were above the average in originality, and attractiveness. The prize offered to the best masked lady was presented to Miss Anna Davis, who represented Miss Liberty. Mr. J. Wood, of San Francisco California, received the prize offered the most comically dressed gentleman. He was dressed as a beggar. The most striking costume was that worn by Harold Holbrook, who was so dressed that when viewed from the right side he seemed to be a lady but when his left side was presented he was dressed in the garb of a gentleman. Those who danced were: Misses Bell Walker, Mary Laura Pendleton, Martha Pate, Mary Warren Collins, Kathleen Turner, Winnie Simmerman, Ethel Binkley, Edna Black, Mary Marks, Rose Ethelyn Collins, of Hartford; Margaret Williamson, of Wysox; Anna Barnes, Anna Alford, Bess Alford, of Beaver Dam; Beulah Palmer and Sue Gardener, of McHenry; Anna Davis and Josie Holmes, of Owensboro; Messrs. James Glenn, Ross Taylor, Maurice Barrass, Arthur Kirk, McDowell Fogle, Raymond Felix, Edward Duke, Addison Howard, Goodell Wooten, Robert Sidney Walker and Harold Holbrook, of Hartford; Arthur G. Butler, Clyde Cissell, Birkhead Barnes Frank Barnes, Victor Willis, Hammel King, Shelton Alford, Jack Smith and J. Wood of Beaver Dam, Cokley Taylor, of Maceo, Roy Barnhill, of Madisonville, Ralph Davidson, of Henderson; Mesdames, Gilmore Keown, and Lee T. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Riley, Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Barrass, of Hartford and Mr. and Mrs. Henderson Murphree, of Owensboro.

Mr. Alfred T. Lee, 68, retired farmer, of Knuckles, Ky., and Mrs. Minnie Renfrow Wedding, of Hartford, Ky., were married Monday afternoon at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. T. D. Renfrow, on S. Main street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. K. Struve.

The groom is the father of Mrs. Renfrow and the bride is a sister of Dr. Renfrow. A wedding supper was given in honor of the couple by Dr. and Mrs. Renfrow, Monday evening. After a visit at Akron, Ohio, the couple will reside at Hartford.

Moore's Airtight Heater

Moore's Air-Tight Heater is substantially a small furnace, surrounded by an open casing. The fire pot and dome are solid castings, extra heavy, firmly bolted together with pure asbestos packing in joints, insuring the greatest durability.

Great cleanliness is assured by the ash pan apron, which prevents ashes falling on the floor when pans removed, and by dust due, which carries all dust up the chimney.

Radiation takes place freely from the entire surface of the fire pot and egg-shaped dome.

Complete circulation is formed by drawing the cold air from the floor up through the openings in the bottom of the stove, when it comes in contact with the highly heated surfaces of the fire pot and dome, and is discharged through the upper parts of casing into the room, making a constant circulation and maintaining an even temperature everywhere.

The screen or ash rests on the base and does not come in contact with the dome or fire pot at any point thus allowing for the expansion and contraction of the highly heated and the blacking will not burn off, served from discoloration by heat, and the blacking will not burn off. Send us your orders. We can make prompt shipment.

PARTIAL TO LAMB

Armenians Make Meat Staple Article of Diet.

Methods of Preparing It Seem Strange to Those Accustomed to Western Cooking—Eggplant a Favorite Vegetable.

Lamb appears to be the basic item of the Armenian diet if one is to judge by the number of Armenian dishes in which it plays a part. No less than 23 ways of using this meat are given in a list of typical Armenian dishes prepared by an expert.

Roast lamb with matzoos sauce and lamb broiled whole are substantial features of Armenian banquets. Then there is broiled lamb, lamb roasted in paper, lamb roasted with tomato, whole spring lamb roasted, lamb stuffed with rice, steamed lamb, lamb broiled, hunter style; lamb grilled on skewers, braised lamb with wine sauce, braised lamb with currie, braised lamb with tomato sauce, braised lamb with onions and braised lamb in paper dishes seasoned with peas.

Kouzou kapama is an elaborate lamb dish in which the meat is steamed with scallion and lettuce; kouzou guvey is lamb roasted in an earthen pot with rice and tomatoes.

Eggplant is a favorite Armenian vegetable which is often used with the lamb to make a delicious dish. Hun-kair beyendi is mashed eggplant and potted lamb; patijon cheop kebab is fried lamb and eggplant grilled on skewers; eggplant stewed in lamb broth and braised lamb and eggplant are other savory dishes.

All sorts of vegetables and even fruits are stewed in lamb broth to give them that richness which is a feature of the national taste in cooking. Fresh peas, artichokes, string beans, celery, leeks, spinach and quinces are mentioned in Armenian culinary lore as being the better for simmering slowly for some time in the lamb broth. A variation dish is noliul, Turkish peas stewed with onions in lamb broth.

Onsommur dolma is an elaborate Armenian dish, composed of minced meat stuffed with onions, pine nuts and currants, fried in olive oil and served cold. Eggplant stuffed with rice and onions and cooked in olive oil is also served cold. Fassoul pulak is beans stewed with vegetables and olive oil and served cold.

Pine nuts and currants are favorite ingredients of stuffing, appearing not only in the stuffed mackerel but also with rice as a stuffing for turkey in a dish called Hindi dolma. Harpoot keofteh are delicious boiled meat balls prepared with cracked wheat and stuffed with meat, pine nuts and currants. Stuffed vine leaves, yalanji dolman and yaprak sarma are other favorite dishes. The leaves of the grapevine are used for the outer wrappings of these vintages. In the yalanji dolman rice and onions already cooked through are wrapped in the vine leaves and the whole again subjected to a slow simmering process in olive oil. In the yaprak sarma the rice and meat are cooked together or, rather, the rice is cooked in a rich stock and then wrapped in the vine leaves and simmered in oil.

The names of these Armenian dishes cannot be translated according to their sound, for hashlam is not an effort to orientalize the well-known boarding house vland of lamb hash, but plain broiled lamb, and shish kebab instead of being a Turkish form of T.N.T. is a mild and savory dish of lamb grilled on skewers.

Making Thrift Compulsory.

In the police courts of New York state it is getting to be a common practice to sentence minor offenders to a term of saving, and in Syracuse last year $5,000 was invested in this way in War Savings stamps, all later returned to the men or used to help their families. At Niagara Falls, when David Biederick was placed on probation six months ago and ordered to give the probation officer $12 a week for War Savings stamps, he complained bitterly. At the end of six months he received $230.50 worth of stamps, and he voluntarily placed himself on indefinite probation, promising to bring $10 a week to continue his savings investment.

Outguessed Him.

Pauline Lord went to call on William Harris, Jr., agent an engagement just before he set sail for Europe. "What's your salary?" demanded Harris, after the other details had been discussed. Miss Lord told him, "church" decided the manager, who, looking at the sum.

"Why, don't you think I'm worth it?" Miss Lord asked.

"Yes," admitted Harris, "but I didn't think you did."

Some Kicks.

"And you say the nurse kicked you, Sam?"

"Just he did, boss."

"How far did he kick you?"

"A rather mean, boss?"

"How far were you from him after he kicked you?"

"Does you mean how far was I from him after he kicked me the first or the last time, boss?"—Yonkers Statesman.

To date the national forest reservation commission has approved for purchase 1,751,115 acres for national forest purposes in the mountain areas of the eastern national forests.

"PAL" GOOD WORD, BUT SLANG

Term in Good Society Accepted as Meaning "Chum;" in Vocabulary of Crime Stands for Accomplice.

The dictionary recognizes the right of "pal" to inclusion in our language, though designating it as slang. Like many words thus classed, it is a terse way of expressing a relationship readily understood but not so easily defined. In good society it is accepted as meaning a chum, a congenial companion; in the vocabulary of crime it stands for a confederate or accomplice.

The most natural and instinctive thing in life is a desire for congenial companionship; only the abnormally developed mentality can live on a sufficiently exalted—or shall we say self-centered—plane as to other personalities.

A pal is an intimate friend of either sex, to whom one may "talk as the heart heats," may confide hopes, fears, happiness and disappointments, certain the trust will not be betrayed. Between opposite sexes is excluded lovenaking or "spoofing," but means a broad, intelligent, faithful, yet subtle friendship, since all friends are not pals; not necessarily a unanimity of opinion, but a disposition to "agree to disagree" in case of differences. There is a tacit respect for each other's individuality.

Perhaps one of the best tests of a pal is that the two enjoy silence together; there is a sense of companionship in being together without the constant trickle of words which most of us feel necessary unless one would be thought unsocial.—Detroit Free Press.

WOMAN, 80, WORKED IN MINES

Grandmother, Yet Able to Be on the Job Ten Hours a Day, Tilling Like a Man.

Mrs. Bridget McHugh, the oldest "pit-brow" woman in the Pemberton, Eng., coal field, is dead at the age of 80 years. For more than half a century she had worked at the mines.

"Old Bridget," as Mrs. McHugh was familiarly called, was a hale and hearty, strongly built woman who could use a shovel in filling mine cars as well as any man, and was always looked upon as an expert pit-brow worker, few being her equal. The shorter working day was unknown to her, and summer and winter, rain or shine, she was accustomed to leave home at five o'clock every morning, and was in her place at the coal bank before the whistle sounded at six. Her day continued until five or six at night. Mrs. McHugh was a grandmother, and two of her sons are employed in the colliery where she worked so long.

Crystals of Unlimited Size.

Artificial crystals of great regularity and clearness, and of almost unlimited size, are claimed as products of the perfected process of R. W. Moore, an American physicist. The usual growing of crystals consists in evaporating the solution in which a little crystal is suspended as a nucleus. In the new method, the solution is kept slightly supersaturated, and the growth continues as long as this condition is maintained. Crystals of Rochelle salt (sodium-potassium tartrate) more than three inches long and two inches thick have been produced, with all surfaces and angles perfect. This salt is most soluble in hot water, and supersaturation is obtained by dissolving in hot water, and slightly cooling. With the aid of a thermostat the temperature is so regulated as to keep up the supersaturated condition. The seed crystal is suspended in the solution of the material, and growth is said to continue indefinitely with efficient control.

For Better Education.

The honors for literacy must, alas, go to Germany, where the literacy percentage is far less than one! England follows close behind. But in the United States nearly 6 per cent of the people can neither read nor write our language. This sounds bad, but it really isn't when you consider our heavy immigration.

Educational bureaus throughout the country are constantly bettering conditions, for greater literacy means greater labor production. In many counties traveling libraries are sent out—wagons fitted up with book shelves.

But careful education of the children is the most important branch of all, and so many cities provide conveniences for crippled children to go to school in.

When we consider that India and Egypt are over 92 per cent illiterate, our fast decreasing six looks very small.—Popular Science Monthly.

Mexico's Pyramids.

Archaeological investigations by a governmental commission to solve the mystery of who built the great pyramids at San Juan Teotihuacan, 27 miles from Mexico City, says the Detroit News, have brought to light two great granite heads of the ancient Mexican god of the air, Quetzalcoatl. These heads are almost perfect specimens, bearing all the symbolic markings. The long-disputed point as to who erected the pyramids is, as yet, unsolved. These huge mounds, one to the sun and the other to the moon, the former being 761 by 721 feet at the base and 21½ feet high, are generally attributed to a tribe that preceded the Toltecs, probably dating from about the sixth century.

THREE BIG QUESTIONS

No. 1—Do you expect to make your own living?

No. 2—Are you interested in making your living in the easiest, best way—the way that will leave something over and above your living expenses?

No. 3—Have you given enough attention to conditions to understand fully that to make more than a living you must be educated to do some one thing well?

If your answer to No. 1 is "YES," the best way to answer No. 3 is—enroll with us and equip yourself to be an efficient Stenographer and Bookkeeper.

The answer to question No. 2 is the result of answering No. 3 put into practice.

FRANKLIN AT HEAD OF LIST

His Book, "Way of Wealth," Has Had More Reprints Than the Work of Any Other Author.

Greeley's advice, "Young man, go West," is changed by A. Edward Newton to this:

"Young man, get a hobby, preferably get two, one for indoors and one for out."

Riding a hobby differs from riding a horse, said the wise lunatic, in that you can get off the horse.

Anyhow, Mr. Newton takes his own medicine, and for some 30 years he has ridden a hobby all over the continents in search of rare books, Girard writes in Philadelphia Press.

He's a collector, he is, and his home contains an immense and highly valuable library.

"What is the prize book in the whole world?" I asked him.

"The Gutenberg Bible," said he, "for which Henry E. Huntington paid $50,000."

This son of the old Southern Pacific railroad builder has what Mr. Newton declares easily the greatest private library on earth.

You would hardly think it possible to write a book about book collecting which would interest the rank outsider who doesn't know a first folio from a side of sole leather, but Mr. Newton, whose style is delightfully whimsical, has succeeded in doing it.

A copy of Ben Franklin's "Cute Major" was found in a Chester county garret not long ago and was afterward sold for $300, so Mr. Newton reports.

Of all the books and pamphlets Franklin turned off his Philadelphia press, that one, said the famous printer, was his best job typographically.

Franklin did so many things first that folks rarely remember that he also printed the first translation of a Greek or Latin classic that was issued in America.

No one has yet matched the old sage in another respect—400 reprints of a single work. Franklin's "Way of Wealth" has passed that number. There have been 75 editions of it printed in England, 55 in France, 11 in Germany and 8 in Italy.

It has even been translated in Russian and Chinese.

All other best sellers have been bucked off the map by that unique output of the Boston lad who some one wittily said "was born in Philadelphia at the age of seventeen."

Famous Carryalls.

The two most famous carryalls in Washington are owned by Senator Edge of New Jersey and United States Marshal Spain of the District of Columbia. The senator's conveyance, a high-powered automobile, is famed because it carries license No. 1 from the state of New Jersey. The number is not much wider than a lead pencil and it certainly looks peculiar fastened on to the big green car. Marshal Spain's hack is one of the grand old one-horse-shay variety. He uses it because congress has persistently refused to supply a gasoline bus for him. In order to maintain an even keel he has to sit in the exact center of the seat. If he sits on one side the hack lists heavily either to the port or starboard and he has to cling tightly to the cushion to prevent his going overboard.

Australian Gold Output Falling.

Gold production of western Australia continues to show a steady decline. During the six months ended June 30, 1919, the total Australian production amounted to 573,279 fine ounces, of which western Australia furnished 410,428 ounces. For the first six months of 1918 the Australian production was 611,911 ounces, the state of western Australia furnishing 443,983 ounces. During the first six months of 1917 the total production amounted to 727,995 ounces, of which amount western Australia furnished 490,466 ounces. It is stated that the cause of this decline is increased working expenses due to high wages and the high cost of machinery and materials. It is not expected that much, if any, improvement can be looked for in the immediate future.

Horse Ought Have More Sense.

A man driving an express wagon in Southbridge street appeared to be more concerned in a newspaper he was reading than in steering the horse out of harm's way. The paper blocked the view entirely in front of the driver, who seemed to be oblivious to his surroundings as the equine jogged along in what he found later to be the wrong road. When he woke up to the situation he found that he and the wagon had gone more than three-quarters of a mile out of the way and then he discovered that he had lost himself and had been doing extra work for nothing. When at last the driver lifted his head and found what had happened he cursed the horse for not knowing better than to pass by his own stable.—Worcester Evening Post.

men and the country blossoming as the sun.

It was directly after James had made these promises and sent the notorious Tyrconnell to Ireland that the fight over Ulster began. I want my readers to note how these events followed in natural train. William had ascended the English throne when Tyrconnell was recalled and the Irish, fearing that their cherished scheme to murder the Protestants would fail, set about to carry it into effect. Priests began to harangue the people, telling them to arise and slay the heretics as the Inquisition directed. The massacre planned was on the order of the day of St. Bartholomew in France, when at the tolling of a bell thousands of Protestants were put to death. Alexander MacDonnell, a Catholic leader, decided to occupy Londonderry. So advancing on the little city of Ulster, he gathered to him all the minions of the papal power in Ireland. Protestants were murdered without regard to age, sex or condition. Irish and English were killed alike if they were Protestants. Mothers' breasts were torn from their bodies, their babies were hacked in two before eyes, fathers were hanged and stabbed in the presence of their children and old grandmothers were burned to the stake. And this was by the poor oppressed Catholics of Ireland. Reaching Londonderry they commanded her to surrender but she would not. So came the famous siege of Londonderry which is celebrated in story. Then a young man, after wards known as the Prince of Orange, collected the Ulsterites together and defeated the Irish, driving them in panic back to Enniskillen where they were put to rout. There was founded the province of the Orangemen, a nation horn in blood, baptized in fire and sworn, to this day, never to bow to the power of Catholic Ireland. Massacres continued until England was forced to place sentries in all parts of Ireland to protect her people from being murdered. They are there today.

So in brief is the history of Ireland up to the final union—and it is nothing but a story of foul intrigue, religious superstition, agitation and murder. In the more modern days we have the "Molly Maguires," a secret Catholic society, which was formed for the purpose of annihilating the English peasantry who had settled among them. Says Michael Moore, an Irish writer: "The Mollys served their purpose. All along the roads of Ireland could be found the bodies of the English who had allowed night to catch them away from home. In their hearts were driven dark knives or their brains had been battered out." This was a grand-mother of the deeprooted society of traitors which is making so much noise in the world today—the Sinn Féiners.

I wish I had time to quote you some more of the history of that beloved Isle of which my antagonist boasted so much. Perhaps in some future article, if he cares to discuss the subject further I shall tell you something of the findings of American secret agents during the last war concerning a certain message sent by His Holy Highness, the Pope, to the Kaiser by way of Ireland. Also, I would like to talk some more about the medieval history of Erin and modern toil-but must hasten on. But let me drop this word in reference to those heroic sons of the Emerald Isle whom he lauds for their bravery. Only Ulster furnished her quota of soldiers during the war; the rest of Ireland refused, plotted and schemed to overthrow England, the champion of the allied cause. American soldiers, hearing the call to fight for right, joined hands with the Canadians and the Australians and went over and fought Ireland's battles for her. And soon, America too came out for justice and freedom. What did Ireland do? She raised a rebellion and sent Roger Casement to Germany with a regiment of Irish to aid the Germans; she sheltered 40 boats and when German prisoners were quartered in Ireland, she helped them to get messages through to the Kaiser; when American soldiers were quartered in Dublin streets they were assailed and spat at. America cannot forget. If my informed and ardent contemporary read current affairs he knows these things are in the American armies. I have seen Ohio county, dying of the flu, pouring out their life-blood for the principles held dear. Many are lying beneath the sod of a foreign land, out there the lilies spread their hands white to cover up the red, red stain. Beneath the silent stars they lie in a foreign land and among those who speak an alien tongue, were your boys, our boys, their pride and flower. And they were dying on the line of a hold back that Hunnish and his band of Irish-Americans were blowing up our munition factories all over the land. Those Irish whom America had taken to her breast as a mother does a child were now stabbing her in the back.

We will touch his attempted arguments briefly. The fact that the Valera is a Spaniard is so well known to the intelligent reading public that we pass this by in contempt. For this we have such authorities as the Literary Digest, The Philadelphia Public Ledger and Life Magazine. Ireland and Mexico are very fittingly compared. Wherever Catholicism holds sway darkness prevails. Ireland and Mexico both live in poverty and squalor and support rich monasteries. The leader of the party in power, the Carranzistas or Catholic party in Mexico, is an Irishman, Obregon. The burning of the monasteries, etc., was done by those peasants who have been robbed by Rome all these years—the Villistas.

The word papist had never been abrogated the past, the Vatican itself styling the Catholic government the Holy Papal see.

The references he made to conditions under Elizabeth and Cromwell as well as Edward and Henry, have already been treated in this article.

Just as a parting word concerning Catholicism and its designs upon America, let me call your attention to an article which appeared in the Kentucky Irish-American, published at Louisville, where it was unhesitatingly stated, that the pope was supreme in all things and we in America as well as elsewhere must eventually come under his power. This was clipped and commented upon by no less a paper than the Masonic Home Journal. The reference to the toe-worshipping was figurative, yet history shows that the pontiff requires even greater obeisance at the hands of his devotees and even today demands the bended knee which our own Teddy was de-lighted NOT to do.

I shall be very glad to continue this discussion and will await my assailant's reply. If he will give me his name, I will be only too glad to meet him in public discussion at any time or place on my return to Kentucky. The people need enlightenment in this subject and the presentation of both sides is the best way for them to get it. Success to the Herald, its efficient editor and all its readers—my readers of former times—for whom I still have a warm spot in my heart.
